

Drive to Abolish Sales Tax Alarms Ohio Legislators

SEE PROPOSAL SLASH INCOME 90 MILLIONS

Lawmakers Hold Amendment Would Cripple State's Entire Tax System.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS — A campaign to abolish the sales tax and several other state-wide levies through a constitutional amendment aroused the concern today of numerous legislators, tax experts and the school interests.

The Ohio tax and revenue commission after an investigation said that the proposed amendment might prove disastrous by crippling the state's revenue system at a time when tax revenues were declining and governmental expenditures were increasing.

It estimated the amendment would deprive the state and local governments of $69,000,000 and possibly $90,000,000 a year in income.

Exempts All But Fuel.
The amendment, fostered by the Anti-Sales Tax League of Ohio, would read:

"On and after Jan. 1, 1939, no excise tax shall be levied or collected upon the sale or purchase of any goods or commodities, except upon fuel for motor vehicles."

The league, headed by Dr. Oscar Hayes of Akron, is seeking approximately 304,000 signatures to petitions to place the proposal on the November ballot.

Apparently pessimistic about the prospect of obtaining enough signatures, Dr. Hayes declared there is "a concerted effort by the Ohio Education association to intimidate the circulators of these petitions."

He said the league's campaign "will fail, if it does fail, on account of educational groups advocating sabotage of the petitions."

The educational organizations are concerned because the tax and revenue commission estimated the amendment would deprive the schools of approximately $31,000,000 a year.

The commission also estimated the state government would lose $10,700,000, the local governments $15,000,000, and poor relief $12,000,000.

These Taxes Would Go.
The taxes which the commission said the amendment would knock out, and the amounts they yielded last year, follow:

Retail sales, $49,878,000; cigaret excise, $7,415,000; 3.2 beer, $4,000,000; high-power beer and wine, $6,651,000; malt, $47,000, and liquid fuel, $1,197,000.

The commission added there was a possibility the utility tax might be affected, too.

The legislature would have to resort to alternative taxes to replace the lost revenue, the commission remarked.

"The burden could not very well be placed back on property," it added, "because of the 10-mill limitation and refusal of people to vote additional levies."

A gross income or gross receipts tax was suggested as a possible alternative.

Restore Sanity To Countries at War, Davis Pleads

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Norman H. Davis, president of the American Red Cross, declared in London today that "something must be done to restore civilization to a sanity" which will stop the killing of noncombatants by warring forces.

His speech before the International conference of the Red Cross was broadcast to the United States.

"It is our manifest duty to do what we can to prevent the needless slaughter and suffering of women and children, irrespective of what may be called military objectives," said the text made public here in advance.

Davis applauded discussion of a project for "neutralized hospital areas."

Up and Down THE STREET

Miss Elaine Bittle, former Mansfield school girl, is presiding this week over the San Fernando Mission Fiesta as its beauty queen. Miss Bittle, granddaughter of William E. Scott, R. F. D. 4, who left here eight years ago with her parents for California, was chosen queen from a large number of contestants when she represented North Hollywood in the fiesta and annual horse show. The opening festivities were attended by many Hollywood celebrities, among them Clark Gable and Carole Lombard.

Wayne Williams, manager of the Majestic theater, who was a bridegroom Saturday, just can't get away from the box office complex. The wedding took place at Park Avenue Baptist church where open church was observed. As the wedding party waited in the hall back of the auditorium, members wondered if there would be a crowd. The bridegroom, peeking into the church, said: "It's not a bad house for Saturday."

Mansfield, as well as other cities in Ohio, will soon have a complete register of its war dead, which will be compiled under an American Legion sponsored WPA project, legionnaires attending the Fifth district convention here were told yesterday by state Legion officials. About 1,200 men will be put to work within the next month checking graves of soldiers in cemeteries all over the state. In the fall, the WPA workers will move indoors and record the name and information they compiled during the summer.

The annual migration to the fishing grounds of Canada is under way, and Carl (Grocer) Hellman is again at the head of the procession. The years are few that any Mansfielders have been Hellman to the gateway. Hellman left Saturday and today to be on deck for the first day of the "muskie" season. Hellman has been making the Canadian trip once or twice every season for 18 years.

OUT FOR OFFICE

Mansfielder at Boys' State in Attorney General Contest.

A Mansfield boy was running for the office of attorney general of the state today on the "Nationalist" ticket and some hectic campaigning was going on in his behalf at the Boys State, Columbus.

Robert Roth, Senior High school student, one of the 19 boys who went from McVey post to the Boys State Saturday, is pitted against Eugene Bright, Toledo, for the office. Today the annual elections to state offices in the boy-governed "state" was holding the attention of more than 700 high school boys.

Jim W. Ferriman of Elyria and Victor Nelson of Akron were waging a hot fight for governor. Party platforms included everything from "honest and clean government" to "inner spring mattresses for all dormitory bunks."

The victors will be sworn in tonight and for ten days will conduct governmental business in the "state" which occupies the Columbus Fairgrounds. Nineteen boys from Richland county are attending the Boys State, 12 of them from the Mansfield Legion post.

BIB SUFFOCATES INFANT IN CRIB

Cuyahoga Falls Child to Be Buried in Loudonville Wednesday.

LOUDONVILLE —(AP)—The body of James N. Bailey, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bailey, Cuyahoga Falls, was brought to the Swank funeral home here last night after the child had died of suffocation at its home.

According to the death certificate the child was smothered to death in its crib by a rubber bib, which fell across its face.

The child is survived by its parents, two brothers, Robert and Clark, and a sister, Norma. The body will be taken back to Cuyahoga Falls tonight and brief services held at the home at 10 a. m. Wednesday. It will be returned to Loudonville and funeral services held at the Swank funeral home at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with burial in the Loudonville cemetery.

PLANE CRASHES LEAVE 11 DEAD

Mississippi Mishap Kills Four,
Brother Sees Kin Die; Navy
Flier Perishes in Sea.

(By International News Service)
A series of plane crashes at widely scattered points in the nation over the week-end left 11 persons dead today.

Four persons died in one accident in Mississippi, and in another accident a pilot had to sit helplessly in his plane watching his brother crash to his death in a sister ship.

Those killed when a plane crashed near Louin, Miss. Sunday were identified as Jack G. Forsner, P. S. Stubblefield, John D. Roe and R. D. Portwood, all of Greenwood.

Two other accidents each claimed two lives. At Asheville, N. C., Lieut. S. V. Stephenson, U. S. army flyer from Chanute Field, Ill., and Dr. David M. Buck, Jr., were killed when their plane went into a tailspin and crashed in a pasture. Leo Rinke, 26, and Kenneth Kullman, 21, died near Detroit when their ship attempted a forced landing because of motor trouble.

At San Mateo, Cal., a naval reserve plane plunged into the bay carrying its pilot Lieut. William M. Holenbeck, Jr., of Georgia, to death. His mechanic was hurt. At Milwaukee, Oscar Galatin, 24, was instantly killed when his home-made plane crashed on a highway narrowly missing two cars. A brother, Harold, flying another ship overhead, watched him die.

At Lake Geneva, Wis., Saturday, Mrs. Jeanette Peterken, 56, wife of a Chicago millionaire, was drowned when she was trapped in the cabin of a plane which her son piloted when it plunged into the lake.

ANTI-TRUST QUIZ WON'T HARM BUSINESS, SENATORS DECLARE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON — Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Borah (R-Idaho) declared today that business had nothing to fear from the federal investigation of monopolistic practices.

They took issue with a statement of Rep. Snell (R-N.Y.) that he was concerned lest the inquiry be "made an instrument for further unjustified attacks on legitimate business."

"My belief is," said O'Mahoney, "that this can be a cooperative, objective study of inestimable value to business. I have seen nothing to indicate any intent except to find a solution of a difficult economic problem."

"This is a task for men of intelligence, tolerance and good will in business and government," O'Mahoney probably will be chairman of the 12-man committee. Borah is one of the members.

Snell had said that if the investigation were turned into "another witch hunt against business," it would be a "further deterrent to business confidence and recovery." Borah declared, on the other hand:

"I venture the belief that the committee is not proposing any witch hunting program. We have a great problem and it is our business to do what we can to advance a wise and just solution for it."

He said he would suggest to the committee, which will meet later this week, that it spend most of the summer in studying the problem raised by the president's recommendation for strengthening the anti-trust laws.

STRICKEN AT INFIRMARY
Funeral services were held today at the Wappler funeral home for Martin Williams, 58, who died Saturday at the Richland county infirmary after an illness of several months. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

SHELLEY — An ice cream social will be sponsored by the Epworth League of the First Methodist church Saturday night at Central school park.

WOMAN, 72, DIES
Mrs. Frances Ryder Had Lived in City Since an Infant.

Mrs. Frances H. Ryder, 72, of 57 High street, wife of Edward Ryder, died Sunday afternoon at her home after an illness of several months.

Born in Germany, Sept. 28, 1865, Mrs. Ryder came to Mansfield with her parents at the age of six months. She was a lifelong member of St. Paul Lutheran church and a charter member of the Royal Neighbors' lodge.

The survivors include her husband, a son, Frank Kelsey; two daughters, Mrs. John Weutrick and Mary Kelsey of Mansfield; three brothers, Paul Frisch of Troy, N. Y., and Emil and August Frisch of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Flockenizer of Mansfield, three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at St. Paul Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Herman L. Gilbert officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

U. S. AGENCIES WAIT RELEASE OF HUGE FUND

Roosevelt's Signature to Inaugurate Spending From $3,753,000,000 Budget.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—Heads of five government spending agencies pledged today a quick start on the administration's $3,753,000,000 relief and public works program.

Their detailed outlines for hundreds of bridges, sewers and roads, schools, airports, low-cost housing developments, dams, harbors and flood control units awaited only the president's signing of the bill. The five federal officials discussed their programs last night in a radio forum. Here is a summary of what they said:

Harry L. Hopkins, Work Progress Administrator: The $1,325,000,000 paid to WPA workers will flow into trade channels in their living costs—$915,000,000 for food, $220,000,000 for rent, $150,000,000 for household expenses, and the rest for medical care, transportation and other items.

250,000 More Jobs.
"The added business through purchase of materials alone will give indirect, full-time private jobs to 250,000 workers, entirely apart from those on WPA rolls."

Howard A. Gray, Assistant Administrator of Public Works: For each of the billion dollars to be spent by PWA in the next two years, 36 cents will go to builders on the job and 64 cents to the producers of building materials.

Nathan Straus, United States Housing Administrator: Through the slum-clearance and low-cost housing program, "slum dwellers will benefit by being given an opportunity for new and better lives, wage earners will benefit by being called back to productive jobs; taxpayers will benefit . . . for when you tear down the slums it means less disease, less juvenile delinquency, less crime and reduced expenses for hospitals, insane asylums, reformatories and jails."

Brig. Gen. John J. Kingman, Acting Chief of Army Engineers: In more than 100 flood control projects and more than 400 river and harbor projects, "75 per cent or more of all the money spent on such work goes for labor, either direct or indirect."

Secretary Wallace: Through the ever-normal granary system, "the farm plan will safeguard consumers against shortages and extremely high prices, and protect the farmers against extremely low prices."

AT G. A. R. MEET

Mansfield Auxiliaries Send Delegates to Columbus.

Mansfield patriotic groups affiliated with the Grand Army of the Republic were represented in Columbus today for the opening of the annual encampment of the G. A. R., but there were no Civil war veterans from this vicinity at the meeting.

From the entire state there were but 20 veterans at the opening of the encampment and of these none was under 90 years. About 100 are expected to attend the reunion this year. This is the 72nd encampment and will continue until Thursday.

Representatives from the Mansfield Women's Relief Corps, the Daughters of Union Veterans and the Sons of Union Veterans, left yesterday and this morning for the meeting.

DIES SUNDAY OF HEART ATTACK

William H. Walker, 57, Willard, to Be Buried Tuesday.

WILLARD—William H. Walker, 57, died Sunday in the Willard hospital following a heart attack. He was admitted to the hospital Saturday.

For the past five years he made his home with a niece, Mrs. Chester Vance, east of here. Also surviving are his father, C. G. Walker of Newark and three children.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Socor funeral home with Rev. C. C. Hoffelinger officiating. Burial will be in the New Haven cemetery.

DIES AT AGE 48

E. E. Sloan Operated Grain Elevator for 20 Years.

WILLARD—Elza E. Sloan, 48, operator of a grain elevator at Boughtonville, east of here, for 20 years, died Saturday in the Willard hospital. He is survived by his wife Florence; two sons, Richard at home and Arthur of Mansfield, two brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services were to be held at 1:30 p. m. today at the family home in Boughtonville, and at 2 p. m. at the Delphi church.

Italian Protests About
What They Call Insults
To Fascism Lack Logic

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The Societa Di Mutuo Soccorso, of New York, has protested "at the insults heaped on the Italian race" by your correspondent.

"We resent this attitude of your paper, as it tends to undermine the friendly relations existing between America and Italy," says the note.

By way of reply, your correspondent would like to ask the Societa Di Mutuo Soccorso whether it has ever expressed any similar resentment against inflammatory and scurrilous comments directed against other countries and their people by Italian fascist leaders and Italian newspapers which speak only by Mussolini's permission, and thus may be said to speak sentiments approved by him.

It would clarify matters also to have a statement from this society and from the editors of some Italian newspapers published in this country as to whether they are devoted to fascism or to the American form of government.

The fact is that any friction between Italy and the United States is chargeable strictly to fascism, which has been waving a dagger at the throat of all democracy for years. It has repeatedly caused mobs to gather before the embassies of friendly nations (not ours as yet) in Rome and has made submission to arrogance the price of friendship. If it is peace and friendly relations between nations which concerns these people, they must have viewed with equal resentment the occasions in Rome when it was found necessary to place soldiers around foreign embassies to restrain mobs called out deliberately by the government. Mobs do not gather in Italy without government approval any more than mobs gather in Jersey City without the consent of Frank Hague.

Another fact is that fascism and our form of government are incompatible. It is impossible to believe in or admire fascism and be a genuine American, to be true to Mussolini and to the United States.

The question of race is another and delicate matter calling for tact and courtesy. The Italians in this country—and in Italy, too, for that matter—are treated with respect by Americans, and Americans of Italian origin or descent are treated no worse and no better than other Americans.

And, finally, just why should anyone claiming to be an American be so touchy about a job of counter-ribbing directed at the soldiers of a bombastic dictator of a foreign land when they invade a stricken nation, also friendly to the United States, and forget to duck?

England Begins to Learn Something About United States Besides Scandals

—By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Expert)

NEW YORK—They do say it's an ill wind that doesn't cool somebody's brow, and by that token we find our United States profiting in a strange and indirect way from the international chaos.

Our English cousins are for the first time making a serious attempt to get acquainted with the United States through the medium of the British press. American news, calculated to be informative and constructive, is taking the place in considerable degree of the sensationalism upon which the average Briton has built a distorted picture of this country and its people.

This change of heart is not due to a sudden surge of affection. America is regarded more or less as the arbiter of the economic and political fate of a very distressed world.

England is looking to her for leads, particularly in the Far East. Hence the growing thirst for real news.

Britain as a whole has some extraordinary ideas about America, due to the fact that the great majority of Englishmen know very little about the United States.

The Great Britain public based its ideas about America and her people mainly on stories about gunmen, violations of the prohibition law, hijackers, lynchings and Hollywood scandals.

I have before me a memorandum made in London eight years ago, recording that a great London daily published a lengthy story about "Scarface Al Capone, the millionaire, gunman, gangster and king of the Chicago underworld." The story read:

COURT ORDERS INQUIRY INTO GRAFT CHARGE

Governor, 13 Others High in State's Democratic Ranks, to Be Investigated.

AFTERMATH OF PRIMARY

High Tribunal Acts Following Charges of 'Conspiracy' to Defraud State.

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA—A grand jury investigation of political graft and coercion charges against Gov. George H. Earle and 13 others high in Pennsylvania Democratic ranks
was authorized today by the state supreme court.

The court named Judge Paul M.
Schaeffer of Berks county to sit in the grand jury hearing.

Earlier, the high tribunal had accorded to a request of the three Dauphin county judges that another judge be named to supersede them. The petition for a grand jury investigation was filed originally with the Dauphin county court.

Aired in Primary.

Most of the charges upon which the grand jury was asked were made in the bitter Democratic primary campaign in May—many
by former Atty. Gen. Charles J.
Margiotti, an unsuccessful candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, who was fired by Governor Earle.

It was charged in petition for a grand jury investigation, filed later
by District Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Dauphin county, that there was a "conspiracy" among persons in and closely connected with the administration to "cheat and defraud" the state for gain, political and otherwise.

Won Senate Race.

In the Pennsylvania primary
May 17, Gov. Earle defeated S.
Davis Wilson in the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator. Wilson was backed by the Committee for Industrial Organization and Senator Joseph Guffey.

Earle severely criticized Postmaster General James A. Farley for "interfering" in the Pennsylvania primaries when the Democratic national chairman urged Democrats to support Thomas Kennedy for the gubernatorial nomination and Earle for senator.
Kennedy lost the nomination.

Officials of the Empire Sheet

Kennedy Arrives In U. S. Denies He'll Run In '40

His Job's In London, Ambassador Tells Ship Interviewers; Goes to White House Thursday.

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK—Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to the Court of St. James, returned home on the liner Queen Mary today and emphatically stated he will not be the Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1940.

"I have a job to do in London and I promised the president I would do it," he said. "Any idea of seeking the nomination would be a breach of faith."

He declared he would report his observations gathered abroad to President Roosevelt in Washington on Thursday. He admitted his report on economic conditions would not be particularly cheerful.

No War Debt Plans.

He asserted there were no plans
for settling the British war debt, summoning an international disarmament conference or making a new monetary deal with Britain or France.

Kennedy told reporters aboard
ship that his main object in coming back to this country was to attend the graduation exercises at Harvard university of his eldest son, Joseph Kennedy, Jr.

James Roosevelt, son of the president, and members of the maritime commission, of which Kennedy was former chairman,
came down the bay to greet him.

Kennedy denied all rumors that he intended to resign and was taking another position. Asked whether he would accept the presidency of the New York stock exchange, he replied:
"I definitely would not consider
it."

RIOTING FLARES

Canadian Jobless Smash Ship
Windows, Battle Police.

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (AP)— Three downtown riots in which crowds of unemployed shattered store windows, fought police and besieged police headquarters
brought provincial authorities hurrying here today for an investigation.

Two officers and 35 jobless required hospital treatment after the disorders yesterday. A trail of broken windows, involving 39 stores and the postoffice, lay in the wake of the riots.

The latest disturbance followed departure of a delegation of 100
for Victoria to interview government officials. Scores of those left behind stormed the postoffice building, hurling rocks and smashing six windows. They dispersed at request of their leaders.

You Can't Tell By the Weather, But Summer Arrives Tomorrow

You may not suspect it, but summer is practically here, a 53-degree temperature early this morning to the contrary.

At exactly four minutes after 9
tomorrow morning, it will be the "good old summertime"—but don't be too hasty about taking the winter comforters off the beds.

It has been known to snow in the latter part of June, according to oldsters with good memories.
The spring of 1938 will be remembered as having behaved in a most unbecoming manner, fulfilling the predictions of the amateur prophets who said last January and February: "We'll pay for this spring-like weather later on."

Then there was the ice storm of April 6 when trees were broken and budding trees and shrubs blighted by the heavy coating of ice which covered everything.

RESCUERS FIGHT FLOOD TO REACH SUBMERGED CAR

16 Bodies Removed From Wreckage of Fast Train, Broken Trestle; Coach
With 17 Aboard Still Covered By Water, Debris of 'Flash Flood.'

(By Associated Press)

MILES CITY, Mont.—Custer creek, into which the Milwaukee railroad's "Olympian" carried nearly 40 persons to their death in the nation's worst train tragedy in years, resisted today the efforts of rescuers to reach one car still holding its dead.

Heavy silt flowing into a submerged tourist sleeper, in which 17 persons had booked space, forced Milwaukee officials to abandon attempts to raise it with cranes.

They said they feared the bottom of the water-logged sleepers might drop out, sending the bodies down stream.

Sixteen bodies, 11 of them identified, have been recovered from the wreckage.

The flood waters, which had carried out a 180-foot bridge just before the fast, air-conditioned train arrived at the crossing early yesterday, continued to subside slowly today.

Salvage workers said the receding water would permit them to dig the bodies from the submerged sleeper.

Milwaukee officials said the train carried at least 155 passengers and a crew of 10.

With 17 known dead, 44 in hospitals, 37 treated for minor injuries, and 41 others reported unharmed, rescue workers were hopeful the total dead would not exceed 40.

Survivors told of seeing as many as five or six bodies swept into the flood waters of Custer creek, into which the train plunged yesterday.

Trestle Carried Away.
A midnight "flash flood" had carried away the 180-foot trestle spanning Custer creek 26 miles east of Miles City. Seven cars of the 12-car train followed the locomotive into 20 feet of rushing water.

Only a few minutes before a track walker had reported the creek almost dry.

Witnesses said they could see the bodies of passengers still seated in the submerged sleeper, the forms made indistinct by the moderately water that filled the car.
The sleeper's lights burned eerily
through much of last night.

At Glendive, 80 miles northeast of Miles City, the sheriff's office said a woman's body had been taken from the Yellowstone river into which Custer Creek flows.

Of the 65 or more injured who were taken into Miles City in a hospital train yesterday, 30 remained in a hospital today, two of

WIDOW JAILED

Once Accused in Slaying, She's Held in New Death.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (AP)—
Sheriff Henry Flowers held a 34-year-old widow for questioning today in the investigation of the fatal shooting of John Anerenok, 21-year-old miner of Moffitt Sterling, Greene county.

Anerenok was found early Sunday with a bullet wound above his left eye at the home of Mrs. Florence Hartman of Taylorstown, who was acquitted in March, 1937, on a self defense plea of slaying her husband, Joseph Hartman, in a Cleveland, O., park.

Coroner Raymond Adamson reported that Mrs. Hartman, who was held without charge, told him she and Anerenok were asleep on the floor of her one-room home
when she was awakened by a shot.
He died five hours later. A .22
calibre rifle lay at Anerenok's side.

CHAPTER XXXIV

"Don't know as I want to come back," Griff told him soberly. "The old gentleman and I are working out a lot of trick ideas that are going to bring in business. Besides, he's going to give me a raise."

Clay choked suddenly over his cake.

"Fine," he said, when he could speak.

Annie Kime, Wardlaw's housekeeper and Jeremy had entered wholeheartedly into the plot. At the former's suggestion, Clay and his wife for the time being would occupy a small bedroom that opened off the library. That would obviate any necessity for Larry's going to the second floor until they were ready to announce her presence. Both the conspirators gave the bride a subdued, but cordial, greeting when Clay ushered her into the kitchen.

"It's no way for you to be coming into your home, darlin'," Annie sympathized, "but it won't be for long, I'll guarantee. Nobody could hold out long against a lamb like you. Isn't she sweet, Jeremy?"

"Not bad at all," Mr. Kime admitted. He was not much given to words, particularly in the presence of his wife.

"How has uncle seemed this afternoon and evening?" Clay wanted to know.

"Same as usual, I guess. He seems to feel pretty good."

Clay had a similar report to make to Larry when he came down from a brief bedtime call on Romulus.

"He was in a good humor," he exclaimed. "I took him some cost sheets and reports yesterday for the past month and he's been looking them over. I think he was quite surprised to find that we were holding our own at the place and were staying out of the red. That should be a help."

"Oh, I hope so," Larry spoke in a low tone, looking about the library apprehensively.

"You don't need to whisper," Clay assured her. "This old castle has thick walls and sounds don't carry. I can always be talking to Annie, in a pinch."

"Clay . . . you are going to tell Mr. Wardlaw pretty soon, aren't you?"

"Any time at all, dear. Now that you're here, I'm not any crazier about this deception than you are, but it was the best thing to do. The only thing. Not sorry, are you?"

"Of course not! Only it seems so queer and strange."

"Well, don't worry. It's all going to come out all right. If it doesn't, I'll make it. With you for a partner, I'm not afraid of anything. I'm only sorry we couldn't have started out in a more approved fashion. I'll marry you all over some day if you like, Mrs. Odell."

Clay faced the ordeal of entering the office the next morning with some apprehension, wondering if the news of his marriage was already abroad. The plant looked the same, no flags flying or garlands festooned on the door he told himself. But he had no sooner entered than he was well aware that his presence had ended a lively buzz of conversation.

A battery of curious eyes and expectant faces told him that the worst might be expected.

As he had rather anticipated, Olive Case was the self-appointed committee of investigation and congratulation.

"Oh, Mr. Odell!" she burst out at once. "Is it true?"

"Is what true?"

"You needn't deny it! It's all over town . . . about you and Larry. I'm so excited I could scream!"

"Please don't. My nerves aren't so good."

"Such a marvelous surprise! We're thrilled to death! I can't wait to see Larry. Where is she? At home? I've just got to see her and tell her how glad I am. Oh, and I do congratulate you, too."

"Thanks. Yes, Larry's at home. My home."

Olive's dark eyes grew round with amazement.

"Not . . . never . . . you don't mean at Mr. Wardlaw's!"

"Sure. That's where I live."

"Oh, my gracious! Then I'll have to wait. Why . . . why, I wouldn't go there for worlds."

She backed away from the desk, unable to say more; eager to escape. Clay realized, and spread this fresh news. Well, why not? Fine thing this, living under the same roof with the town's bogie man, he reflected somewhat bitterly. A house that people were afraid to enter. It wouldn't be for long, that was one sure thing. He wasn't so sure he wouldn't tell his uncle and get it over with when he went home to lunch.

But Clay was destined not to have lunch with his bride that first day.

It was about eleven when the representative of an important customer of the Norwood Mills dropped in the office. This personage was an old friend of Romulus Wardlaw and, when he heard of the latter's accident, suggested calling upon him. Clay reviewed that situation swiftly and decided to resort to a subterfuge. He was sorry, but his uncle was not so well and was not receiving his friends today. Mr. Odell, however, would be pleased to entertain the gentleman at lunch in town while they discussed business. Yes, he was empowered to negotiate any matters during Mr. Wardlaw's illness.

It occurred to him that it might be wiser to relay word to Larry through Annie, but the temptation to hear her voice was too great.

Larry was suitably disappointed, although she insisted that it was quite all right. She had been amusing herself looking about the house and visiting in the kitchen with Mrs. Kime. Yes, it was rather lonely. But she thought she would not go out. And she would be glad when it was time for Clay to come home.

He promised that it would be as early as he could arrange it.

Larry had scarcely hung up when she was startled by a sudden thumping noise overhead. With her heart beating nervously, she hurried to the kitchen to tell Annie.

"Oh, that was only Mr. Wardlaw rapping for me with his cane I guess. Maybe he wants his lunch early or something. I'll run up and see. Don't you fret, dear. He can't come down here."

When she returned a few moments later, she was shaking her head.

"He wanted to know who that was telephoning," she confessed. "I hadn't thought about that. I had to lie kind of fast, too. I said Mrs. Gates had run in to see me a minute and wanted to call her husband. Then he says he heard the phone ring first. So I had to say the operator had called the wrong number. Beats all how you have to keep on lying, once you start. Then he wanted to know where the mornin' paper had got to and I had to tell him it must have blown away or the boy didn't bring it. I said I'd get him some lunch and started away. Land knows what he'll say when I go back."

Annie Kime, the housekeeper, sighed and began preparing the invalid's tray while Larry stood watching in silence. When everything seemed in readiness Larry spoke in a sharp, tense voice. A red spot flared in either cheek.

"Mrs. Kime, I'm tired of all this pussyfooting around here like I was some sort of a burglar! I'm not going to stand it another minute. I'm going to tell his uncle so. Right now!"

"But, darlin'!" Annie's hands dropped helplessly to her sides. "Mr. Clay . . ."

"Clay told me last night he didn't care how soon Mr. Wardlaw knew. I'll save him the trouble of telling. Give me that tray and show me where to go with it. I'm not sure I remember the way."

"Larry . . .!"

But Larry had the tray in her hands and was starting.

"Good lands, I don't know what to say," Annie fluttered. "Wait. I'll go right behind you . . . if you need me."

"I'm not afraid," Larry boasted. "He can't do anything to me. We'll get it over with. But I'll be glad if you will stay near me."

With her head held high, she traversed the hall and mounted the stair with a steady step, Annie following nervously. The latter designated the door of Romulus' room with a jerk of her head. It stood open. Larry mustered her courage and entered swiftly. Annie, holding her breath, heard a clear young voice say:

"I've brought you some lunch, Mr. Wardlaw. How are you today?"

Romulus Wardlaw was lying with his face turned from the door when Larry Layne effected her brave salute across the tray.

"What . . .?"

The Story of OD and AD and the 2 STORES

OD and AD wanted to go into business for themselves. They decided to open retail stores. But they had different ideas as to how they should get customers. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Opened their Stores

OD believed that the way to get customers was to sell at low prices, and that the way to sell at low prices was to keep his expenses down. So he spent as little as possible in fixing up his store. He said he was not going to "waste" money on "trick lighting" and a "fancy front." He bought large quantities of a few lines of merchandise, because that way he got them cheaper.

Then he put an assortment of his goods into the windows, but because he had done so little to make his store attractive, few people noticed that it was a new store, and few came in to buy.

AD decided that the first thing he must do was to make his store attractive to customers. So he had it painted throughout in cheerful colors. He completely changed the windows and front, and he put in fixtures that flooded the whole store with light.

He chose merchandise well-known by name to the public, and bought smaller quantities of many lines, thus giving customers a greater selection. He arranged his stock in the store to make shopping convenient. He put in window displays of his most interesting merchandise—and changed them frequently.

Because his windows and his store were so attractive, many people stopped to look, and enough people came in to buy so that AD's goods sold quickly and he was soon ordering more of many items.

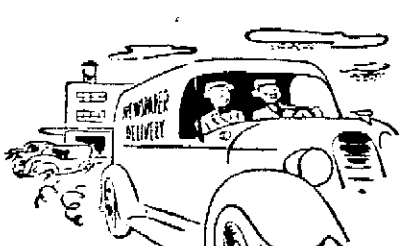

How OD and AD went after Customers

OD soon found that he could not get the customers he needed from those who passed by his store. So he had circulars printed and hired boys to distribute them from house to house. Sometimes they put them under the door or into the mail box but often they threw them on the porch or into the yard, and many were blown away. Also, OD found it was a slow and costly way to tell his story, as in a whole day a boy could cover only a few hundred homes.

OD was disappointed to find that after all this work and expense, only a few more people came to his store.

AD decided that the more people he could tell about his merchandise, the more people would come to his store. So he put advertisements into newspapers read by many thousands of people every day. He knew that people were eager to get their newspapers to read the news. Therefore, his advertising was more likely to be seen in a paper people wanted to read. Also, the newspapers were delivered all over the city as soon as they were printed.

AD found that the more he advertised, the more people came to his store and the more goods he sold and the less it cost him to handle each sale. So he passed on the greater part of these savings in lower prices and better values to all his customers.

How OD Failed and AD Succeeded

OD found that so few people came to his store that his goods moved very slowly. He could buy very little new stock because his money was tied up.

So he decided to have a clearance sale. He had big signs painted for the front of his store. He had circulars printed and sent boys out to put them into parked cars and distribute them at homes. But the people who came saw so little they wanted that his sale was a failure. At last, he disposed of all his remaining stock to an out-of-town bargain store at less than half what he had paid for it.

OD had had a very unhappy experience, but because he had never advertised in the newspapers, few people in all the city ever knew that his store had opened or that it had closed.

AD found that with more and more people now coming to his store, his stocks moved very quickly. As a result, he was constantly able to have fresh, new merchandise for his customers.

He concluded that since people bought newspapers to read the news, he should tell them the news about his merchandise and his store. As a result, AD's advertisements were read as eagerly as any other part of the newspaper. Soon every one in town knew that AD had the newest things.

AD did not make exaggerated statements in his advertising. He just made the truth interesting. Repeatedly AD had to enlarge his store, and employ more people to take care of his increasing business. And, although his expenses were now very much greater, he sold so much merchandise and turned his stocks so rapidly that his store was very successful and was known far and wide for the values it gave its customers.

AD Tells OD How Advertising Serves the Store and Its Customers

ONE DAY OD came to AD and applied for a position. He asked AD how he had built such a fine business and obtained so many customers. AD said, "First, by making the store an attractive and convenient place to shop. "Second, by having the kind of merchandise our customers want."

"But these are not sufficient without Advertising to tell the people about them. So we continuously publish interesting, informative, truthful news about our service and our merchandise. And we tell it in the way that reaches the largest possible number of people quickly—through newspaper advertising."

YOUTH DIES IN HEAD-ON CRASH NEAR BUCYRUS

Farmhand One of Eight Killed in State; City Without Serious Accident.

Fatally injured when his roadster collided head-on with a truck eight miles west of Bucyrus early Sunday, Truman Esham, 22 farmhand of near Upper Sandusky, died a few minutes later enroute to a Bucyrus hospital.

Esham was one of eight traffic victims in the state over the weekend which saw Richland county and Mansfield escape without a serious accident.

Two companions of Esham, who were asleep in the car, suffered head lacerations, while a fourth occupant escaped unhurt. Injured were Jack Sizemore, 25, Upper Sandusky, and Ollie Rhoden, 16, of near Nevada. The truck driver was not hurt.

Esham's body was removed to Kinniconich, Ky., his home community. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Esham, both of Kentucky.

2 Hurt Near Greenwich.
Two of five members of a New London family, who were riding in the same car when injured Sunday afternoon when their automobile sideswiped another on route 224 near Greenwich.

Hurt in the crash were Mrs. Laura Felver, who suffered head lacerations, and a fractured nose and bruise, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lucile Felver, fractured left ankle and bruise. Both were treated at Municipal hospital, Willard.

The other occupants, including a five-week-old daughter of Mrs. Lucile Felver, George Felver, grandfather of the child, and Harold Felver, its father, escaped injury.

In a collision of two cars in Hayesville at midnight Sunday, Michael Lavigna, 26, of Loudonville, suffered scalp lacerations, State Patrolman C. B. Tieben said.

Lavigna was driving a car which collided with one operated by Robert Barr, 19, of near Jeromesville, at the intersection of routes 30 and 60.

Woman, 87, Dies Of Shock.
Among the state's traffic victims was Mrs. Susan Yoder, 87, of Wadsworth, mother of Harvey O. Yoder, prominent Ohio dry leader. Mrs. Yoder died of shock after the automobile in which she was riding collided with another.

The state's most serious accident resulted in the death of two persons, and injuries to four others when two cars collided head-on near Jackson. The victims were Mrs. Elizabeth Clures, 70, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Anna Clures, both of Jackson.

PATROL STAFF HERE INCREASED

2 State Officers Added to Local Station; One Transferred.

The addition of two patrolmen to the Mansfield station of the State Highway Patrol and the transfer of another officer was announced today.

The new officers here are Patrolmen C. W. Cale and C. H. Thibodeau. Cale was transferred here from Lorain to succeed Patrolman A. E. Mercer who was sent to the Columbus patrol station. Patrolman Thibodeau came here from the patrol training school at Columbus.

Cale served as patrolman at the Mansfield station for six months last year, leaving here in December for Salem where he was transferred. He was later sent to Lorain.

3,000 SEE DRUM CORPS COMPETE

Crack Massillon Unit Beats Elyria's State Champions as 3,000 Look on.

Communism, Socialism and Fascism, it will be the duty of every Legionnaire to work against such forces," Suhr said. He added that the best way to maintain Americanism is to instill the spirit into modern youth, where the enemies of democracy gain their allies.

Outlining the purposes of the Social Security act, Drain asserted that the program is the first major step toward national security and may be indispensable to the preservation of the nation against alien forces.

The district Legion included in its resolutions a request that veterans be permitted to pay their government life insurance premiums at post offices in their communities instead of sending them direct to Washington.

The move toward equalization of allowances for widows and children of veterans seeks an amendment to an act passed in 1934, which gave dependents of veterans killed in action more compensation than those of veterans who died in later years.

The resolutions will be submitted at the state convention in Cincinnati.

In his welcome to the delegates, Mayor Claude M. Hunter called on the Legion, which he described as "the greatest patriotic organization in America," to rally its forces against threatening "isms" such as have invaded Russia, Germany and Spain.

Elected to serve with Dr. Kuntz, who was vice commander last year, were L. A. Cook of Mansfield, vice commander, and Victor Gerhardtstein of Bellevue, chaplain. The sergeant-at-arms will be appointed by the district commander.

Kent Oberlin, past commander of Earl McVey post, Mansfield, was elected third division commander; and Charles Payne, Shelby, was chosen county commander. Orval Keirns of Bellville is vice county commander. Division No. 3 includes Richland and Ashland counties.

Delegates chosen to represent the Fifth district at the national Legion convention were Paul Kenderinger, Crestline; J. M. Crawford, Shelby; Al Weigel, Sandusky, and Paul Collins, Elyria.

Alternates are John Grabler, Mansfield; Charles Carroll, Sandusky; Glenn Brenneman, Wadsworth; and Arthur Laury, Upper Sandusky.

The winning Massillon drum corps which first nosed out Elyria in New York City last year at the national convention when it placed over the state champion, was spectacular in its drill at the fairground. Every man in the group of approximately 50 is six-foot tall or over. The Massillon uniform is a Hunter green, with black trouser stripes, black shoes and black cockade hats. The first prize of $150 was awarded the corps which was given a 94.6 rating by the 13 judges.

Elyria Finishes Second.
The Elyria corps, however, commanded a wave of "oh's" and "ah's" as it marched onto the field in military precision, the gold braid of their white uniforms gleaming in the sun. Members wear white cockade hats. The corps has been state champion for a number of years, and has appeared in all of the national parades. It won second place and $125 with 91.8 points.

Cleveland Heights corps, in scarlet uniforms and cockades, placed third with 88 points and was awarded $100. Akron No. 19 corps was fourth, having scored 84.9. Fourth prize was $75. Toledo South High made an attractive appearance in uniforms of French blue and silver with silver star helmets. This group had 82.6 points and won the $50 prize.

Another prize of $50 was not awarded as the sixth corps, Nelsonville, failed to arrive for the contest.

James Brownson served as master of ceremonies and introduced each unit before it came on to the field. Each corps had 15 minutes in which to maneuver and play.

During the afternoon retiring District Commander Gardner introduced Gen. Drain who spoke briefly.

them critically injured. One unidentified man's back was broken.

Tell of Heroism.

At the hospital, and at the Miles City morgue where relatives came to claim their dead, stories of tragedy and of heroism were told by the survivors.

Ten-year-old Anne Ladas, whose mother was dead and whose father was missing, related how she tried desperately to keep her mother's head above the swirling water.

When the mother, Mrs. Thomas Ladas, fainted from shock, the small girl grabbed her hair and held her head above water for several minutes.

Anne's brother, nine-year-old George, suffered a broken arm, unable to comprehend the tragedy. He kept crying, "I want my mama and daddy."

"But you haven't any mamma and daddy any more," the boy's sister tried bravely to explain. The family was en route home to Bellingham, Wash., from a visit to Greece.

A porter on the train, Lew Williams, was credited by survivors with possibly saving several lives by calmly directing passengers out of his car.

One of the cars teetered on the creek bank several minutes before it slid into the water with the others.

Trainmen Summon Help.

Seven Milwaukee railroad employees, who knew Custer Creek as a ravine that usually carried no more than "a bucket of water," were riding the Olympian as passengers. They joined regular trainmen in helping out the survivors, and two of them telephoned first news of the tragedy to Miles City.

Mike Cain and Ed Hamm, brakemen, crawled over the twisted pile of steel cars, made their way to Saugus, a small station, and telephoned for help.

William Shearer, veteran Milwaukee engineer, said the railroad men were "chewing the fat" in the first day coach when the crash occurred.

"I thought we were just on the ground at first," Shearer said. "Then I realized we were in water and I said 'Boys, we're in the old Yellowstone!'"

"It was a few minutes before I found out it was Custer creek. Why, I've put a train over these tracks thousands of times, and I never saw more than a bucket of water in that creek at once," Shearer said.

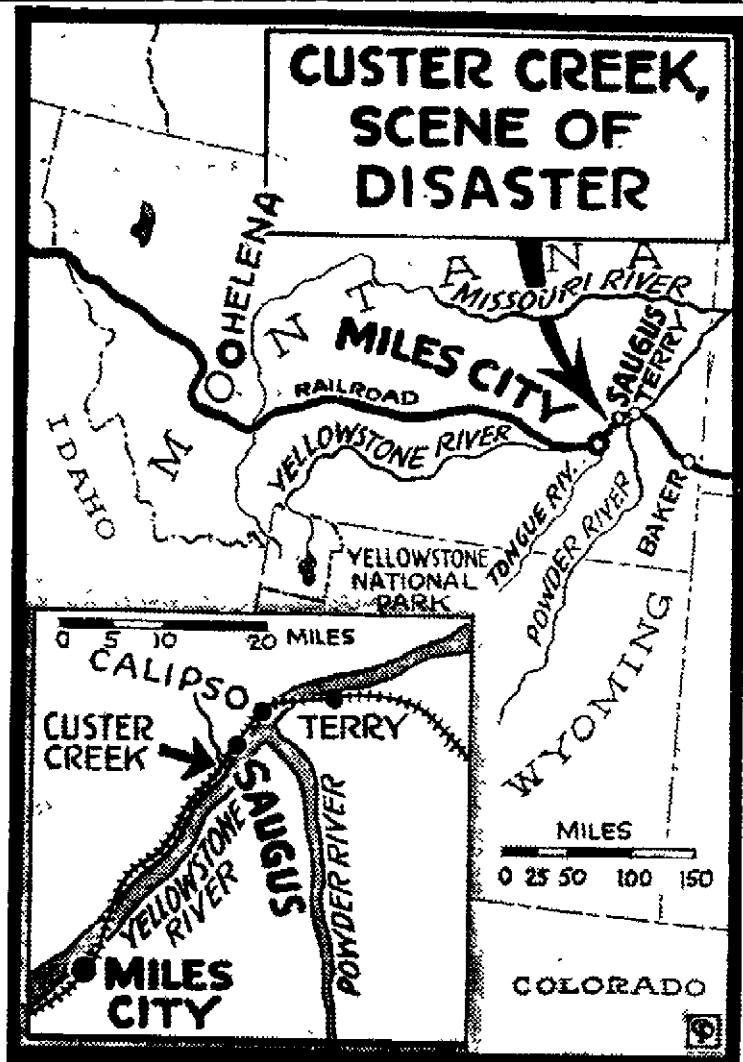

Praises Engineer.
Shearer said Frank Merrifield, engineer of the train, was "one of the best men that ever handled a locomotive."

The locomotive leaped the bridge gap with such speed that it landed on the west bank of the creek, carrying Engineer Merrifield and Fireman H. E. McCoy with it.

Ellis Lund and Thomas Thoreson of Dawson, Minn., together helped "15 to 20" persons from another car.

"It was like a dream. I hardly know how I got out," Lund said later. He and Thoreson were in the smoking car, one end of which was crushed between coaches in the creek bed.

Two wreckers sent to the scene were unable last night to drag out the submerged tourist sleeper be-

—Central Press Photo.

So terrific was the impact of the cars in the middle of the ill-fated Olympian, crack train of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train, which plunged through a flood-weakened trestle in Montana that cause of the depth of the flood water.

Most of the survivors and some of the less seriously injured continued westward yesterday on trains leaving Miles City.

The Holy Rosary hospital at Miles City, to which the injured were taken, is an 85 bed hospital and doctors reported adequate facilities for caring for the victims. Approximately half the 65 brought in on the hospital train were released after emergency treatment.

The wreck was the first on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul lines in 20 years that cost a passenger's life.

Because of the relatively flat straightaway of the tracks east of here, it was believed the train was traveling full steam ahead when it struck the gap left by the washed out bridge.

PROBE BROKEN BANK SKYLIGHT

Federal Men Called to City After Discovery at Mansfield Trust Co.

Bates notified G-men. Two members of the bureau in Cleveland came to Mansfield Saturday afternoon, and also discovered fingerprints. Both police and the federal men took pictures, and the prints will be checked with Washington.

Bates today voiced the belief that the skylight may have been broken by bank bandits "casing" the bank preparatory to a hold-up.

He said that fingerprints were found near an electric fuse box which controls the bank alarm system and tear gas equipment, leading him to believe that bandits may have planned to pull the fuses and cripple both systems when they staged their intended hold-up.

However, government agents and Bates checked the alarm system and the gas equipment Saturday and they found both in working order.

Bates said evidence pointed to a hold-up attempt rather than a safe blowing. The latter, he said, would have been almost impossible because of the design of the huge vault and its 16-ton door with a time lock attached.

The fingerprints taken by both the Mansfield police and the G-men will be forwarded to Washington for comparison with prints on file there of all known bank robbers and hold-up men. Bates said.

FORFEITS BOND IN CITY COURT

Man Who Broke Jail Windows Before Release, Fails to Appear.

Guy O'Hara, 27 Reed street, forfeited bond of $36.30 today when he failed to appear in municipal court to answer charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct, but he left behind him broken panes of glass in a city jail cell.

O'Hara was arrested by police Saturday on charges filed by Mrs. Madeline Lehman, 155 1/2 North Main street, who said he used abusive language during an argument with her.

Police arrested him Saturday afternoon, and put him in a cell, where he broke windows, they reported, before he was released on bond.

Terrapin, Maryland Favorite

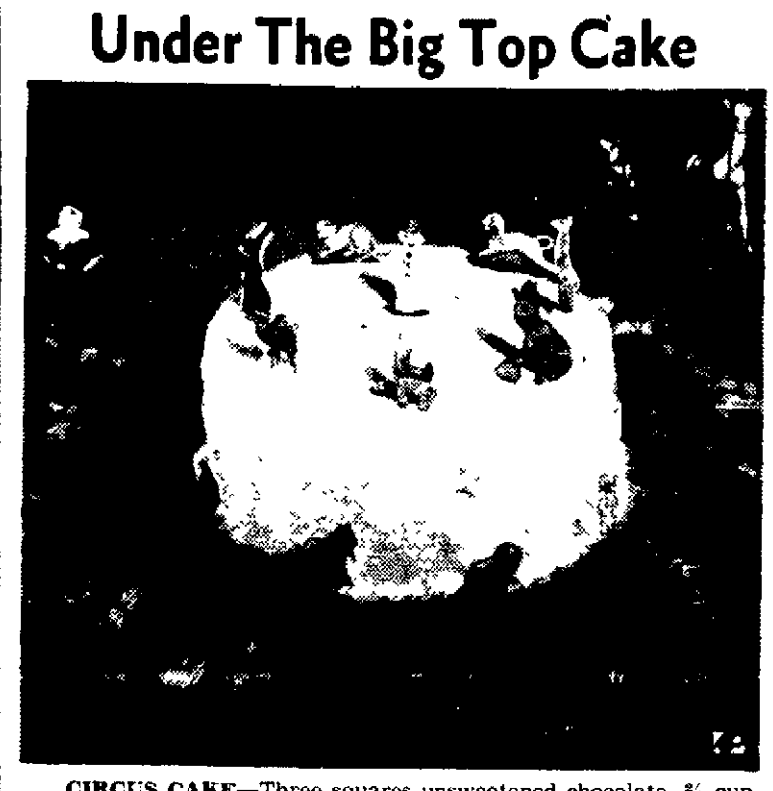

(AP Feature Service Writer)

BALTIMORE—The unchallenged star of Maryland's famed cuisine is the terrapin. No Old Line state banquet is complete without its aristocratic presence—in the soup, as an entree or the piece de resistance.

Miss Valerie Slingluff, charming hostess and one of Maryland's best known mistresses of the art of cooking, reduces to simple terms the rites of preparing this delight of epicures.

"First," Miss Slingluff begins, logically, "you buy the live terrapins. Get the small ones, they're more tender, and get the egg-bearing or cow terrapins. The eggs are delicious."

"The diamondbacks are choice but the golden stripes are very good. The golden stripes are larger

Under The Big Top Cake

CIRCUS CAKE—Three squares unsweetened chocolate, 3/4 cup water, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup butter or other shortening, 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar, 3 eggs, well beaten, 1/2 cup sour milk or buttermilk. Combine chocolate, water, and 4 tablespoons sugar in saucepan. Cook over slow fire until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Let stand until cold, stirring occasionally. Add vanilla. Sift flour once. Measure. Add baking powder, soda, and salt. And sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly. Add rest of sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Then add cold chocolate mixture and blend well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn in two greased 9-inch layer pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 35 minutes, or until done. Place cake on round wooden serving board. Spread frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Arrange candy animals on top and around base of cake. Sprinkle toasted coconut and arrange unshelled peanuts on serving board around cake.

Fresh Icing

If you want a cake frosting that will remain soft and moist for several days select one that contains butter, a little liquid and confectioner's sugar. Boiled syrup and egg white frostings, although they are delectable, often will not keep fresh as long as the uncooked frostings.

Seasoning Cheese

Add chopped chives or onions, minced sweet pickles and a little finely-chopped pimiento to cottage cheese. Season the combination a bit more with salt and paprika. Chill and serve as is or as a filling.

Spread slices of leftover cake with seeded fresh cherries mixed with diced pineapple. Let the combination chill for several hours. Then serve it plain—or topped with a few broken nuts.

As a matter of fact I pay out in taxes very nearly as much as I pay out for all salaries and wages. Altogether there are 14 different taxes that I pay to the federal, state, county, and local governments—taxes which, of course, help to pay for our schools, roads, relief, and general government operating expenses. I am doing my best to reduce your electric service bill, but I think you should know that one reason I can't do it faster is because where I used to pay out for taxes only 6 cents of every dollar I took in, taxes now take 13 cents out of every dollar you pay to me. But in spite of this the electric service bill is the smallest item in the average family's annual budget. So use it freely . . . because ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP.

W. K. Mackeys Feted at Buffet Dinner Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Mackey who are leaving Mansfield July 1 to make their home in Columbus, were guests of honor at a dinner party Sunday evening when Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gongwer and Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Williams entertained for them at the Gongwer home, Edgewood road.

A buffet dinner was served and 14 places were arranged at small tables. The buffet table was arranged with blue larkspur and coriopsis and dark blue and yellow whip tapers. Low, white bowls of garden flowers centered the small tables.

The Mackey children, Faith and Mary Isabelle, who have been honored at a number of farewell parties, will be guests at a dinner party Wednesday at the Barney Banks home, Forest avenue, when Joan and Janet Banks and Joanne Leppert entertain for them. Friday afternoon Martha Purdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Purdy, Park avenue west, was hostess at a picnic party for Faith Mackey.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nixon and family, 42 Sturges avenue, left today for Ceylon, on Lake Erie, where they will spend the week.

GOING PLACES
Here is a frock designed to go places this summer. It is cut with cap sleeves and a skirt of comfortable width and topped with a brief puff-sleeved bolero which ties in front. Chartreuse rayon flat crepe makes it. The wide-brimmed hat is chartreuse straw.

Honor Miss Donna Wierman at Dessert-Bridge, Linen Shower

THE home of Mrs. Harvey Imhoff 454 Marion avenue, was the scene Saturday evening of a dessert-bridge and linen shower for Miss Donna Wierman, bride-elect. Her two aunts, Miss Pearl Wierman and Mrs. Wilbur Wierman, were associate hostesses.

A buffet luncheon was served from a long table to the 23 guests. The centerpiece was as nearly as possible a miniature replica of the way the wedding party will appear next Saturday.

At one end of the table, which was covered with a lace cloth, was a coptic cathedral window with a platform before it. On this stood the minister before a tiny pulpit with a real Bible on it. The altar was flanked with two baskets of flowers and two seven-branch candelabra. At one side stood the groom and the best man.

Nature Clubs Have Week-End Events

Mansfielders figured prominently this past week-end in the third annual meeting of the League of Ohio Nature clubs which was held at Mohican state park. The Mansfield Nature club and Audubon societies were in charge of arrangements for the week-end affair.

Dinner was served to about 60 delegates Saturday evening at the Central Methodist Episcopal church and a business meeting was conducted by Lewis Campbell, who was re-elected president. Delegates from the various visiting clubs reported and committees were named.

Mrs. H. M. Spandau, Mansfield, was elected third vice president and L. S. Barr, Mansfield, who led one of the hikes, was named on the Bob White committee. Mr. Spandau also led two hikes, and Sunday dinner was served by Mrs. W. S. Cline, Mansfield.

The next meeting will be the third Saturday and Sunday in June, 1939 at Youngstown. Representative Uibel of the Ohio house of representatives and Mrs. Uibel were guests.

Mail Association Has Picnic at Crestline

For the final meeting of the year Saturday members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail association held a picnic at Kelley's park at Crestline. There were 36 members and 40 guests present for the meeting and social afternoon.

Newly elected officers were the hostesses. They are Mrs. L. S. Wilson, Mrs. E. W. Dye, Mrs. B. O. Brenner, and Mrs. E. G. Anderson. Meetings will be resumed in September with a garden party at the home of Mrs. J. C. Appleman, 776 Maple street. The party will be Sept. 17.

PILGRIMAGE TOMORROW

Members of Mansfield garden clubs, study groups and other women interested in gardens are expected to attend the annual pilgrimage being sponsored by members of the flower guild of the Women's association of the First Congregational church. The tour, which is tomorrow, leaves from the church at 1:30 p. m. Tea will be served in the garden of the home of Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler following the tour.

Baughman, one of the bridesmaids. Shower gifts at this second pre-nuptial affair, were presented in a large sprinkling can decorated with pastel paper flowers. Bridge followed at five tables with prizes going to Miss Thelma Hursh and Mrs. Harry Buchan.

Miss Wierman, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wierman, and Carl Eugene Fox, Belaire, will be married in an open church ceremony June 25 at 2:30 p. m. in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Tonight Miss Teresa Peiffer and Mrs. Clarence Stuhlreher will entertain at a personal shower to be given at the Susie Janis home.

HIGH NOON CEREMONY READ BY REV. ROLLER

Miss Betty Gustin Becomes Bride of J. W. Ingraham; Miss Helen Bunn, Mr. O'Brien Attendants For Wedding.

AT NOON yesterday Miss Betty Gustin and J. Ward Ingraham were married in a quiet ceremony performed at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. D. N. Roller. Miss Gustin wore a white jacket with blue accessories and a small blue veiled hat. Her corsage was of Sunburst roses.

She was attended by Miss Helen Bunn who wore a white dress with a dusty pink jacket, matching accessories and a large picture hat. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses. Larry O'Brien served as best man.

Miss Gustin, who is the daughter of William McComb Gustin, Boston, Mass., made her home in Mansfield at 106½ West Fourth street. Mr. Ingraham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Ingraham, Manhattan, Kan. He lived on R. D. 5, Mansfield.

Following the single ring ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham left immediately for a two-week trip to Michigan and Pennsylvania. After July 1 the couple will be at home at 130 West Third street.

Mrs. Ingraham, who is a graduate of Boston School of Physical Education, was a physiotherapist for crippled children's schools in Mansfield and Marion. She is a member of the Mansfield chapter of Delta Theta Tau.

Mr. Ingraham was graduated from Kansas State college and was a member of both Sigma Phi Sigma and Sigma Tau. He is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Mrs. Frank Mahoney, Sherman place and three sons, Charles, Frank and Edward, are on a motor trip in the east. Their itinerary includes Niagara Falls, the national park at Gettysburg, Washington, Philadelphia and New York City.

Harold and Roger Eyerly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eyerly, Ashland road, have just returned to their home for the summer vacation. They are both students at Baldwin-Wallace college, Berea.

Beverly Earlene Boals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boals, 43 Marion avenue, spent the week-end in Shelby with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Molder.

Advice—
Faultfinding
Cause of Much Trouble

B VIRGINIA LEE
I HEARD a very good story the other day. It concerned a man and his back seat driver wife.
He hated to drive in traffic in a large city, but one day he had to. His wife had laryngitis, which you know, if you have ever known any one who had it or had it yourself, makes one incapable of any speech except a hoarse whisper. And that is such an effort that it is much pleasanter to keep still.
So, with wife on the back seat, but speechless, the husband wended his way through a crowded street. He did very well indeed, so well, in fact, that when at last they reached their destination a hoarse whisper from the back seat told him: "You did very well, John, very well, indeed!"
Said John, "Thank you, my dear, but I wouldn't have done nearly so well if you hadn't had laryngitis."
Wonder if that was a lesson to that wife or if when she recovered her voice she drove as relentlessly as ever from that back seat?
I know another wife who has been married for years. She realized suddenly that she was a "backseat driver." At any rate, she found a great deal of fault with her mate. She resolved to stop. Every time she found herself criticizing him, she decided she would fine herself until she broke herself of the habit. Fault-finding husbands likewise please take notice.

D. C.: If the boy was as interested in you as you are in him he would have found a way to meet you, wouldn't he? That would lead one to conclude that he is not interested. Then why not decide that you have wasted five months' effort on him and that is enough, and concentrate on boys who are attracted to you? You may meet this one boy without effort after awhile. It often happens so.

C. P. W.: Is a young girl who unfortunately fell in love with a boy who was, for a time, devoted to her. She had been warned not to tell him that she loved him because he is one who loves lightly and passes on to other fields to conquer. So she was careful to "conceal her love," as Shakespeare says. But it was no use. He left her and now goes with another girl. She writes, in tears, to ask what she can do to get him to come back to her.
I am afraid you can do nothing. And if he did come back he would not "stay put." He is young and wants to play around awhile. Cheer up, little girl. Go with the other boy and see whether you don't have fun, and finally forget your lost love.

THEATER

Maternity Is Dramatized.

In giving its co-operation to the making of the picture "The Birth of A Baby," the American committee on Maternal Welfare (associated with the American Medical Association), stressed the fact that the picture was made with the hope of reducing the maternal mortality rate, and this can be accomplished according to the picture, by seeking medical aid from the beginning of pregnancy until delivery of the child. The expectant mother in the picture, played by Eleanor King, consults her physician regularly every month and often as her delivery nears. The story dramatizes the social, psychological and physiological adjustments of a young couple about to have a child. A professional cast of actors were used up until the point when the child is actually born, and for this an unidentified woman in a New York hospital was used. The advisability of examinations for persons about to marry is forcibly depicted in the picture, which is being shown this week at the Madison.

Taylor Comes Through.

You'll forget that Robert Taylor was ever branded "beautiful" when you see his work in "Three Comrades," for in this he has his greatest screen opportunity and it is possible that no other man in Hollywood could have turned in a better accounting of it. "Three Comrades," which the Ohio is showing is one of the pictures you'll remember at the end of the year as one of the best, for it climbs to new heights of personal tragedy and yet has a tender and gay love story. The national tragedy of Germany since the war runs parallel with the personal tragedies—the death of one comrade for what he believes is right and the death of a lovely, reckless girl. There are scenes when the dialogue and characters are reminding of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" in its power and sweep. Robert Young, Franchot Tone and Margaret Sullivan, with Taylor make up a 100 per cent cast.

Popular Attractions.

Three popular box office attractions are offered at the Majestic for three days starting Tuesday. Bing Crosby in his popular "Waikiki Wedding," and Gary Cooper and Madeline Carroll in "The General Died at Dawn" make a nicely balanced program of pictures that have played here before. The Crosby film is an entertaining story of Hawaiian background, with the very tuneful "Sweet Leilani" as its hit song. Martha Raye, Bob Burns and Shirley Ross are seen in Crosby's support. "The General Died at Dawn" is a dramatic and interest-holding story of China with Akim Tamiroff giving a memorable characterization as the epistolical war lord. Cooper is an American adventurer and Miss Carroll an English girl with

Beauty—
Week-Ending
Success
Guaranteed

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

Week-end invitations that come about this time of the year are a real thrill. The lure of the country gets you, and you just naturally want to get out where things are green and buds are bursting. Even though your out-of-town friends love you dearly, it's important to be as nearly the perfect guest as possible.

To be a constant guest you've got to do more than look pretty and not eat with your knife. And on the other hand, don't act like you have been hired to put on an act. Do a lot of listening, and when you talk say something either interesting or amusing.

If you are adept at sports and games don't cry like a sick cat if you fail to win. And if you are just no good at all pick out one of the timid young men on the house party. He will teach you.

Be willing to stay up late, admire the scenery, get up early, and talk to your hostess' relatives and children. Forget about bumpy beds, meals at different hours from those you are accustomed, and a possible wait for your bath.

Another important item that is a necessity if you want to have a return engagement, is to take the things you need. Pick the correct clothes. If you don't know your hostess very well, ask one of your friends who has been there before. Don't wear afternoon dresses when everyone is in sports clothes, and don't come down to dinner in slacks if everyone is dressing for dinner.

Take Own Cosmetics.

You should also take your own cosmetics. Nothing is as hard on the friends you visit than constant borrowing. Pack up a little kit just for these things. There are lots of them on the market, but you can also get a little bag, rubber lined, that will fit into your big bag.

Put in your tooth brush, tooth paste, soap and wash cloth. Take a face powder for daytime, and a lighter shade for evening. Drag along your trick makeup too. It will make you look more exotic for evening if you apply eye shadow, mascara and pencil. It will be an interesting change from the healthy-looking outdoor girl you were all day. Don't forget your sunburn lotion, your cold creams and eye lotion and your night creams. And above all things, don't forget to take plenty of facial tissues.

Thus equipped you'll be a great success if you will be tactful enough not to flirt with your hostess' husband or beau.

HOROSCOPE

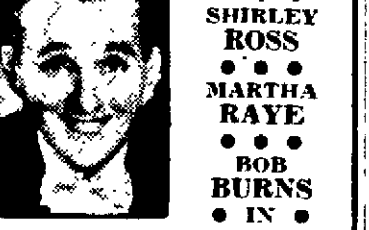

For Tuesday, June 21

A day of conflicting conditions may be expected, judging by the lunar as well as mutual aspects. Besides being a period of impetuosity, passion and self-indulgence, with recklessness and violence actuating the actions, there may also be disputes and arguments with superiors and those in intimate contacts. Disturbed friendly relations may lead to financial loss or entanglements, although all may come out amicably and profitably in the long run.

It Is This Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of contradictory situations, with some benefits, gains and pleasant relations, although these may be followed by strife and possibly violence. Impetuosity and want of restraint may precipitate regrettable situations, later to be adjusted on friendly understandings. Placate superiors and intimate associates. A child born on this day may have a reckless, hasty and passionate nature, with a tendency to quarrels and fiery behavior, although it may really be generous, kindly and good natured. It should be taught proper regard for superiors and those in authority.

Hollywood is amused where the rest of the world may not be in one sequence of "Little Miss Thoroughbred." Here the gamblers are preparing to desert New York for the western racetracks, and John Lital tells the others that they'll get to Hollywood in time for "the opening of the new Inglewood track." (Jack Warner, whose studio made this film, is interested in that new Inglewood track.) But when the horse characters attend the races, the track is Santa Anita's—of which Hal Roach is prime supporter.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I SPENT a blissful but all too short half hour with Faith following Katherine's departure, and gazed every second as it slipped away. Only a mother who adores her children, but finds herself compelled by circumstances to delegate their care to someone else, could have understood my feeling, and yet I was conscious of a certain disloyalty in harboring it.

Katherine was giving my boy and girl professional care such as I could not offer them, and, in addition, was bestowing real maternal love and tenderness upon them. It is an ideal arrangement for my ambitions, and for her hungry heart, denied motherhood, and I felt a distinct qualm of ingratitude for quibbling even to myself concerning it.

Dicky and the boys came to the door, but I sent them away again with a whispered warning to be quiet. And when, all too soon for me, my little lassie drifted off into slumber, I stood watching her for fully five minutes before I summoned the courage to open her windows, shield her crib from drafts with screens, put out the dim nursery lamp and go in search of Katherine.

Ready For Change.

Through the closed door of my father's room I could hear her voice, but could not distinguish a word she was saying, something which I knew was her purposeful plan. I waited until the click of the receiver told me that she had finished with that particular call, and then knocked softly with the special knock which would tell her I was outside.

She came swiftly to the door and flung it open, pad of paper and pencil in her hand.

"I suppose you are ready for me to change bases?" she queried, slipping the key to the outside of the lock.

"Yes, Faith is sound asleep," I said, "and I have shooed the small boys and Dicky away. I am sure you won't be disturbed, and I'll come up myself when dinner is ready to see if you wish a tray or a plate on the table."
"I hate to bother you," she said briskly, as having locked the door we started down the hall to the nursery, "but I'd like you to do that very thing. The fewer people who overhear my telephone conversations tonight, the better."
"Nobody save myself shall hear a word you're saying," I promised. "Lock the nursery door and your own, and take out the keys. I'll use my duplicate ones to come in, so I won't disturb Faith."
"You wouldn't disturb her with a cannon bombardment tonight," she retorted, smiling, "but you'd disturb me if I had to leave the telephone and open the door. So, by all means, use your own keys. Is there anything you want to get in there?"

"Not a thing," I answered, glad that I could answer in the affirmative. She was plainly impatient to resume the telephoning upon which depended the securing of a competent specialist to receive Hank the next morning.

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE NO TRUMP FETISH

SOME PLAYERS have the no trump fetish so badly that they favor it over a rebid of good five-card, six-card and even seven-card major suits. Queer results can come out of deals involving such tactics. Their saddest feature is the worthlessness of a beautiful long suit in declarer's hand, useless because he can't get the lead and run its tricks. He simply has to keep discarding them on tricks taken by the defenders.

North started the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond. East overcalled with 1-Spade. South bid 2-Hearts. North 3-Diamonds and South 3-No Trump. Playing duplicate, The South player figured he might get a better score at no trump than at a suit.

West disliked leading his Spade A, as he hoped to later capture South's K. He hated to knock out his partner's entry which no doubt was a club and as the declarer had bid hearts. West hit on a diamond lead. That play killed declarer's chances of ever making game. South won in the dummy with the A and cashed the heart A. After running two more diamonds, he decided to lead a spade, in order to enter his own hand. East played low and South went up with the K, which West won with the A. The return of the spade 8 gave his side six tricks in that suit as well as the club A.

Keep Vacation Happy With Fine Manners.

Make Friendships Wear Well.

"Delightfully informal!" That's the impression the country club crowd gives.

Yes -- and that informality is modern and sensible. But it does not mean that you check your good manners when you change into your tennis togs.

Watch that attractive pair, Margie and Dick. Playing tennis, Margie chases her own balls, accepts defeat with a smile. But leaving the courts, Dick opens the gate for her, treats her like a queen.

No wonder, Margie knows how to be courteous, too. When a lad she'd danced with at a college prom looks at her without a flicker of recognition on his face, she doesn't embarrass him with, "Why I've met you before!" She lets herself be introduced all over again.

And when Dick meets a new girl, he doesn't step forward with outstretched hand. He knows that etiquette says a girl offers her hand first.

CHEF TELLS OF TRAIN'S LURCH, FALL IN CREEK

Witness Who Pulled Self Out of Coach, Swam to Shore, Describes Disaster.

(Editor's Note: The chef of the wrecked passenger train, the Olympian, who was aboard the flyer when it plunged into Custer creek, described in the following article an eye-witness account of the tragedy.)

By EDWARD S. RICHARDS (As Told to International News Service)

MILES CITY, Mont. — There was a lurch, then a crash. The next thing I knew I was floating around in water.

The train had been speeding along all night and I was just about finishing my work in the dining car. It had been raining hard and I had noticed a few minutes before the crash that it had stopped.

I had been on this run for many years and I knew we were coming close to Custer creek. I heard the rumble of the locomotive when it hit the bridge. Then came the lurch and the crash. Later I found out the middle girder of the bridge gave away. All I knew then was that water was coming in and I was dazed.

Swims to Shore.

I pulled myself over some tables to a downstream window and smashed it with my fist. I pulled myself out into the river and swam to shore. There I found some other fellows, and we started to work pulling people out of the windows.

We saw about eight or nine people get washed away by the flood but we couldn't get to them. We did manage to get Mike Symkowski, another cook, out all right, but he was pretty badly hurt. Then we went back to where the Pullmans were and helped pull some passengers out of them.

There was an awful lot of noise. People were screaming and we found one man who had managed to break a window and get half way out. He got stuck and the water covered him up. He was dead.

The engine crew we couldn't get to at all. Some other people were trying to get to them. I guess they were dead right away.

There were eleven cars on the train and only four were left on the track. It seemed like the last car that went in twisted off the air brake connection and set the automatic breaks. If that hadn't happened there would have been lots more people killed.

JAPAN WARNS

Tells Powers She'll Expand War Zone 700 Miles.

TOKYO.—(P)—Japan today notified neutral powers that the China war zone probably would be considerably expanded and warned them to take precautionary measures in a vast area extending some 700 miles inland from China's coasts.

Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, foreign minister, conveyed the warning in a circular statement to all foreign embassies and legations in Tokyo which said:

"Japan sincerely desires to avoid possible damage to the lives and property of foreign nationals and advises taking adequate measures.

"Foreign nationals and foreign vessels should evacuate the area south of the Yellow river and east of a line linking Sian, Ichang and Hengyang."

ACT TONIGHT ON SCHOOL BUDGET

School Board Members Consider Financial Needs For Next Year.

Scheduled to act on a budget for Mansfield schools next year, the Mansfield board of education will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in its quarters in the Richland Trust building.

Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk, said the board probably would decide on whether it will submit its proposed $500,000 bond levy for a building program in August or at the November election.

The bond issue would supplement funds from an anticipated PWA grant for two new junior high school buildings and a shop building at Senior high school.

Ohio Commercial Secretaries Name Mansfield Vice President.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce was elected vice president of the Ohio Commercial Secretaries association at the annual two-day meeting of the organization which closed at Warren Saturday.

Other officers chosen were Wayne G. Lee, former finance director of Dayton, president, and Dallas Hostettler of Canton, secretary-treasurer to succeed Williams who held that position during the past year.

'38 PLAYSPOTS ESCAPE RAIN

For First Time in Five Years, Season Starts Without Damp Inaugural.

With no rain for the first time in five years to mar opening day activities on Mansfield playgrounds, the summer season of supervised play on 11 city playlots got underway this morning with an estimated attendance of 275 children.

According to Al Fendrick, city playground director, attendance this morning at the various grounds was about the same as opening day last year, when it rained.

Largest attendances this morning were reported at Liberty park, Hedges and Brinkerhoff. Fifty children reported at Liberty park and Hedges and Brinkerhoff each reported 35 children registered.

Activities got underway this afternoon at three other grounds in the city, Johns and Prospect park and the Friendly House. Both Johns and Prospect parks will conduct play in the afternoon and evenings. All other parks will be open morning and afternoon.

One of the new playlots added this year, located at Madison high school, will not open until Tuesday morning. This ground will be opened three days a week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The Friendly House playground is independent of the grounds operated by the Municipal Recreation board.

LAND IN COURT

Two Traffic Offenders Fined, Girl, 14, Given Warning.

Two week-end traffic offenders haled into municipal court today were fined while a 14-year-old girl, taken before Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, was given a warning and released.

Nick Marvicon, 91 Grace street, charged with leaving the scene of an accident, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. Police testified that they arrested Marvicon on Newman street Saturday night after he had driven away from Harker and Bowman streets where his car was said to have struck L. H. Rand, 83 Arlington street, as he was crossing the street.

Walter Andres, Cleveland, pleaded guilty to careless and reckless driving and was fined $20 and costs.

Miss Betty Beaver, 14, of 36 Orchard street, arrested by police yesterday for operating a motor vehicle without a license, pleaded guilty before Judge Anderson in juvenile court this morning. She received a reproof from the court and was released.

COPPER DUE IN COURT TODAY

Judge to Rule On Motion for Discharge From Custody.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson said he probably would conduct a hearing this afternoon on a motion for discharge of Harry Copper, Mansfield patrolman, as a ward of the court, which declared him "mentally ill" two months ago.

Copper's motion had not been filed this morning, but Atty. J. V. Will, representing Copper, said he would submit it to Judge Anderson for consideration this afternoon.

Copper returned to Mansfield last week after spending 60 days at the home of relatives in Jackson county under orders of the court.

MAN DEAD, WIFE ILL.

CLEVELAND.—(P)—William T. Douglas, former employee of the Newspaper Enterprise association, was dead today and his wife, Zoe, was in critical condition from what Coroner S. R. Gerber said was an overdose of sleeping tablets.

SETTLE SHELBY GAS RATE TODAY

Councilmen to Give Ordinance Final Reading Tonight; Minority Hopeful.

SHELBY.—Favored by a 3-2 majority at its first and second reading, the Shelby gas rate ordinance comes up for final passage or rejection by council tonight.

The ordinance, which calls for a five-year contract with the Ohio Fuel Gas company, sets up a rate structure under which the 5,000-foot user would pay 69½ cents per thousand for the three years and 74 cents a thousand for two years.

The bill has been consistently opposed by Councilmen Charles Swanger and John Chew. The other three members, Kenneth Rothlisberger, Chester Bell and C. E. Morris have twice voted in favor of it.

Swanger and Chew have opposed the "sand bag" feature of the ordinance, which would increase rates sharply at the end of three years, and were reported today to have hopes of swinging a third vote—enough to defeat the ordinance—to their views at tonight's meeting.

Approximately 1,900 Shelby consumers will be affected by whatever rate finally goes into effect.

URGES BOARD

Highway Workers' Union Asks Director's Post Be Abolished.

COLUMBUS.—(P)—The Ohio state highway employees union today wrote into the records of its first annual convention a proposal that the position of state highway director be abolished and a bipartisan six-member board substituted.

Under the proposal, board members would serve for 12-year terms. Betterment of civil service laws and fewer political jobs in the highway system were among other resolutions passed.

Officers elected were J. M. Feustel, Columbus, president; V. W. Ramage, Columbus, secretary-treasurer; Bert Fuller, Newark, vice president; W. H. Buchanan, Toledo, sergeant-at-arms.

Named to the auditing committee were Paul Willet, Mt. Vernon; Walter Ruff, Lancaster, and George Spithler, Bowling Green.

PAY TRIBUTE TO N. Y. SENATOR

Friends, Neighbors Pass Before Copeland's Bier.

SUFFERN, N. Y.—(P)—Flags fluttered at half-staff today as friends and neighbors filed through a modest living room to pay their last respects to Suffern's foremost citizen, Senator Royal S. Copeland who died suddenly in Washington Friday night.

Tomorrow these natives will join many persons of prominence, both in political and medical circles, in following the body of the doctor and senator to its final resting place in the family plot at the Mahwah, N. J., cemetery.

A Masonic funeral service will be conducted at the Copeland home and at the grave.

FLOOD OF PETTY THIEVERY KEEPS POLICE ON RUN

Automobile, Bicycle, Tires and Cash Are Among Loot Over Week-End.

Police today were investigating a series of petty week-end thefts that included the loss of an automobile, merchandise and a small amount of cash.

William Baxter, R. D. 5, Mansfield, asked police to search for a young man who had disappeared with his car after agreeing to buy it. Baxter said the youth had taken the machine a week ago with the understanding that he would purchase it and that he had not seen the youth since.

J. F. Beal, 50 Orchard street, reported to police Saturday that while his son was in the post office, his bicycle was taken from in front of the building.

Purse Stolen.

Officers were called to the Avon shop, 13 North Main street, Saturday evening by Miss Helen Bramel of Columbus who said that her purse containing $15 was taken from one of the fitting rooms.

At the Mansfield Lumber company yesterday, Gilbert Vaughn, 209 Coul street, reported the theft of two tires valued at $40 from the garage there, while J. W. Rhoads, 169 Penn avenue, told officers that a spare tire was stolen from his car while parked in the driveway at his home, John Rein, 169 Hedges street also reported the loss of a battery from his machine while parked at the rear of his home.

Police Saturday recovered $3 for William Marshall of Shelby after he told officers that his pocket had been picked of $8 while visiting on North Diamond street. He declined to file charges after recovering part of the loss.

structural needs shows signs of increasing, with both promising to inject new life into operations.

The national operating rate increased 1.5 points to 27 per cent of capacity last week, and a further jump was predicted for this week. In Ohio, Cincinnati showed the greatest increase, climbing 12 points to 28 per cent. Youngstown increased two points to 28 per cent, while Cleveland remained stationary at 31.

Inventories have been worked off sufficiently to make current buying almost entirely for rush delivery, the magazine said, indicating that steel purchased now is going into immediate consumption.

"Only a slight quickening of demand is needed to show a marked effect on production," the article said.

WOMAN, 3 MEN ARE BEHEADED

Quartet Accused of High Treason Die Under Nazi Guillotine.

BERLIN.—(P)—One woman and three men were beheaded today for high treason, in one of the largest executions of its kind carried out under Nazi rule.

They allegedly attempted to organize Communist cells in southern Germany, and established contact with prominent Communists abroad. They also were accused of betraying military secrets.

Coincident with the beheadings and the current anti-Jewish campaign, painted signs have appeared in some streets informing the Hitler government; "but the Red front still lives."

BOB TAYLOR COMES TO TOWN SO N. Y. STENOGRS TAKE A HOLIDAY

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK.—The office boy's grandmother was feeling pretty good today but the stenographer was home with a headache. That's what she said but she wasn't fooling anybody.

She was over at the Grand Central terminal with a couple of hundred other stenographers, filing clerks, housewives and school girls to greet the one—the only—the marvelous—well to get to the point: Robert Taylor was in town.

Bob stepped off the 20th Century and two hundred hearts battered at an equal number of sets of ribs. Bob smiled and 199 lassies thought they would faint—the other one didn't give it any thought. She just fainted.

Four policemen formed a following square and with 400 high heels beating a quick tattoo, Mr. Taylor strode hastily up the ramp, the girls fluttering around like

Bike Enthusiasts Conduct Tour On Richland Roads

Northern Richland county took on the appearance of the English countryside Sunday when 157 bicycle riders from Shelby and Cleveland rode from Shelby to Ganges on a sight-seeing trip.

Sponsored by the Cleveland Cycle company and the Shelby Cycle company, the tour took the riders to the Arthur Clawson home east of Ganges where they were served dinner by the Ganges Grange.

The cyclists, including both men and women, joined with the Grangers in a picnic and provided an orchestra for entertainment.

The Cleveland cycle enthusiasts came to Shelby by train and were joined by the local delegation.

WHEN the men who grow tobacco have such a definite preference for Camels, that's pretty conclusive evidence that Camels give you something very different. For these men know tobacco, and they know Camel buys the FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE GRADES. And it stands to reason that better tobaccos put more pleasure and enjoyment into smoking. Try Camels yourself.

PWA APPROVES SCHOOL PLANS

Action of State Office Clears Way for Board to Put Bond Issue on Ballot.

Mansfield's proposed $1,000,000 school building program had received the tentative approval of the state PWA office.

Granted, principally to permit the board of education to apply to the state tax commission for authority to submit a $500,000 bond issue to the voters, the approval does not mean that the project will be cleared by the federal office at Washington, the board was told.

The application must have the approval of both state and federal offices and receive the necessary allocation of funds before the project can be started.

Proposed by Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools and approved by the board of education, the plan calls for two new junior high school buildings, a shop building at senior high school and modernization of several of the city's elementary buildings.

Financing of the program would be handled through a bond issue and a PWA grant, according to plans of the board.

COURT RECEIPTS DROP IN MAY

$1,200 Collected Last Month $100 Under April Figure.

Municipal court receipts for May which totaled $1,199.97 were $100 below April collections and $600 less than during the same month last year, according to the monthly report of collections prepared today by Miss Isabel Gerstner, deputy clerk.

Part of the loss was attributed to the decrease in traffic forfeitures which last month fell nearly $200 below the April figure, although a decrease also was shown in fines and costs in city cases and in state cases. Receipts in civil cases were $25 below the April figure.

From the total receipts, the city general fund will be increased by $842.60 while $357.37 will be distributed to the state, county and law library.

Balyeat Company Starts Work On New Mattress

Triple Cushion Is Latest In Sleeping Comfort; Plant Enlarged.

An expansion program to provide facilities for the manufacture of a new mattress, the Triple Cushion, has been completed by the Balyeat Manufacturing company.

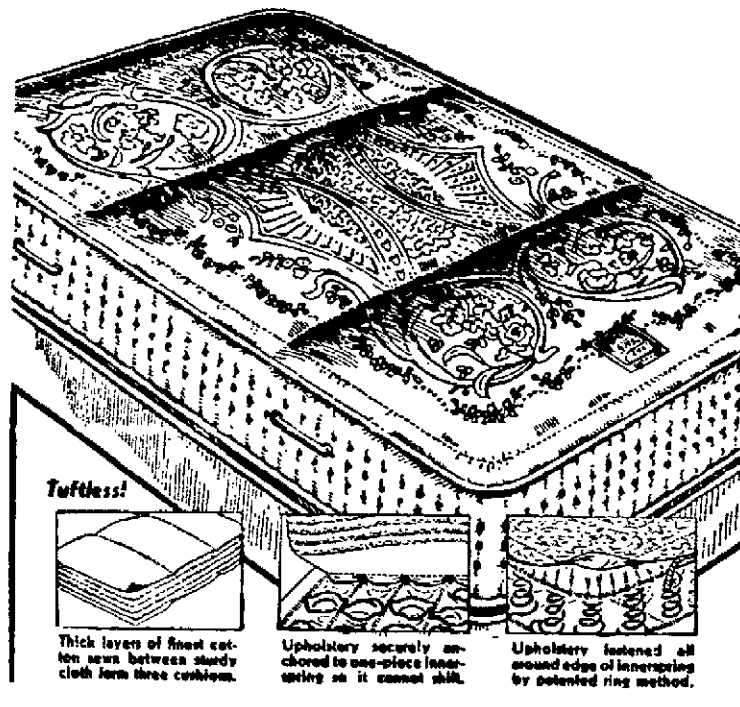

The addition to the Balyeat factory at 481 North Main street will increase the firm's floor space by more than 3,000 square feet. New machinery also has been installed and is ready for the production of the new inner spring tuftless mattress which has been developed, patented and perfected over a period of many years.

The principle of making mattresses without tufts is not new. However, not until the Triple Cushion idea was applied to the inner spring construction, was it possible to make a tuftless mattress that would keep its shape, resist shifting of felt, resist body impressions, and retain all of its original comfort after years of use.

Triple Cushion is an entirely new principle of construction, heretofore unknown in mattress making. Using a completely concealed method of inside fastening, it insures longer wear.

Thick layers of new, sanitary felted cotton, with top and bottom coverings, are sewed together to form three cushions. Extra felt is used in portions where body weight is the greatest.

The Triple Cushions are fastened to the inner spring unit with a patented process. This doubly re-

The three small diagrams below show how carefully the upholstery is fastened to the inner spring unit of the new Triple Cushion mattress which is now being produced by the Balyeat Manufacturing company. Three thick, luxurious layers of cotton felt are securely anchored to the inner spring and cannot shift out of position.

inforces the edge and eliminates side wall sagging.

The Triple Cushion mattress, which will be available at all leading furniture stores both in Mansfield and cities throughout the state, has two new principles.

First—the tuftless feature permits a full free action of every coil spring. No coil is depressed by

Them's Veteran At 'Curing' Sick Watches

Doctor for sick watches—that's the job of Henry S. Them, veteran Mansfield jeweler and watch specialist, who has a wide experience in "treating" both the old "turnips" as well as the modern streamlined timepieces.

Mr. Them opened a watch repairing service in room 515 in the Walpark building the first of the year and during that short period has "cured" hundreds of watches of their ailments.

"Of all man's possessions, and surely one of the most valuable, the watch is usually the most neglected," Mr. Them points out.

"Man keeps a pretty close tab on his automobile, sees that it has proper lubrication, water and generally in pretty fair running order. But when it comes to his watch—he may look at it a dozen times a day, year in and year out, and never think any more about it—that is until it finally decides to stop running. And then he figures it must be time for cleaning and oiling, or perhaps a part needs replacing."

Mr. Them has been repairing watches in Mansfield for the last 17 years. He uses the newest process in cleaning both watches and clocks. All work is guaranteed and if the customer desires, Mr. Them will have the watch called for and delivered. The phone number is Canal 1874.

A new pyrometer goes for a ride through the baking oven, whether it bakes bread or enamel, and returns with a complete log of the temperatures encountered on the journey.

Light In Closet Handy Addition To New Houses

A light in a closet saves a lot of rummaging around for misplaced articles. The home owner has a number of different types of such lights from which to make a selection.

The most common method is the ceiling light that operates with a pull chain. Another popular type is the light with the switch on the outside of the closet. With both of these methods there is always the danger that the light will be left burning needlessly for hours. In the latter case it is possible to use a pilot light which glows red while the light is burning and calls the attention of the householder to the fact.

Still another type of switch operates automatically with the opening and closing of the closet door. This is a satisfactory arrangement unless the door is left ajar.

Finally, there is the type of light that burns for a stated time and then goes out. A number of home owners have found this the most satisfactory method of closet lighting, despite the fact that one is occasionally caught in darkness before locating a desired article.

RURAL FIRE HAZARD LESSENED ON FARMS USING ELECTRICITY

Fire losses in rural areas reach annually a total of more than one hundred and fifty million dollars in this country. In addition to this staggering loss of property many rural residents lose their lives or suffer injuries each year.

Obviously any precautions that will assist in reducing these losses should be of prime consideration. The correct installation of electric systems for farm homes and out-buildings offers an effective means of checking possible conflagrations.

Carrying oil lanterns, lighting matches, and candles are among the most frequent causes of farm fires.

Under the Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing administration farmers may now obtain funds for installation of electric systems and other improvements to be repaid over periods as long as five years.

DeMilo Salon Cool Spot in Hot Summer Months

Patrons of the DeMilo Beauty salon, 40 1/2 West Fourth street, will find the large rooms of the shop cool and well ventilated during the hot summer months.

The latest type of equipment has been installed to dry hair in the minimum of time.

The DeMilo salon uses all the nationally advertised methods of permanent waving, including Frederics Vitron and Zotos Machineless.

"For summer-long loveliness," says Milo A. Yergich, proprietor of the salon, "women should put their hair in talented hands. Our operators give it a natural looking wave and out patrons go out prepared, whether it is for a vacation party or a formal dinner."

Mr. Yergich specializes in contour hair cutting and offers free consultation on hair and scalp problems.
